

Cluster couple love their home

By JIM THOMAS

STOUFFVILLE — Despite the fact the week of their moving was the snowiest and bluest of the winter, Len and Verna Hutchinson are snug as two bugs in a rug.

Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson were among the first residents to move into the new cluster home development adjacent to Parkview Village, Ninth Line South.

"This is the greatest thing to happen to us as far as accommodation is concerned," Mr. Hutchinson, a retired high school teacher told The Tribune.

Living in a semi-rural community like Stouffville, yet only 25 minutes from Toronto is ideal, he said.

Len and Verna, formerly of North York, heard about Parkview Village through a friend in the congregation of the People's Church, Willowdale. While making enquires, they were told about the cluster development. They immediately placed their names on the waiting list.

Moving day was Feb. 9.

"We were welcomed by a blizzard," Verna laughed, pointing to a two-foot deep snow drift piled up at the front door. Their apartment, beautifully spacious, includes two bedrooms, a kitchen (with all appliances); living and dining rooms.

Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson speak proudly of their family — three daughters, Alice Atkinson, Durham Ont.; and Verna Mayer, Oliver, British Columbia (twins); Shirley Hutchinson, Toronto and one son, Spencer in Ottawa.

Len and Verna have enjoyed a close association with folks they've come to know at the People's Church including Jess and Rena Pike, no strangers to this community.

They are also enthusiastic supporters of the Christian Blind Mission, R.R. 4, Stouffville.

Mr. Hutchinson held staff positions at several high schools including Strathroy and Stratford. Later, he served on the executive committee of George Brown College, St. James Campus.

Mrs. Hutchinson was an executive secretary for Manpower Services.

"Why Stouffville?" they were asked.

"Like everyone else, we'd driven through town on the way to the Flea Market," Verna revealed. The community's closeness to Toronto is an appreciated advantage, they admit.

"We also like the friendliness of the people, particularly the storekeepers and staff," Len said, "they really make you feel wanted."
