

Labor of love

On Sunday evening, nine members within the congregation of Springvale Baptist Church were commissioned by Rev. Bob Fleming to participate in a "labor of love" in Haiti.

On Monday, the nine, including five young people, left on a two-week mission, with their return scheduled for March 14.

Their project is to assist in the construction of a church. It's totally volunteer.

While the service is rendered in the name of Springvale, assistance is provided through Emmanuel International. Martyn Hartley, a group leader, explains.

"He's hopeful other church people will follow their lead."

"Seeing how these native people live will really jolt you," says Bob Lowe. "Lives will be changed."

The average wage there is $100 a year.

The mission workers role is not that of superintendents, says Martyn. "we roll up our sleeves."

"Once we've established credibility with the people, we'll be in a position to share," he continues.

"It's our way of showing God's love to fellow Christians," he concludes.
