

One Parent Families Support group

The One Parent Families Association of Canada is a non-profit association of families with one parent (separated, divorced or never married) who have joined together for the benefit of the parent and the child. The aim is to encourage families with one parent to find a place in society based on a traditional two-parent family. The association brings together people who've been through the stress and discouragements that often accompany the separation. By providing a comprehensive program of family support activities, both educational and social, we create a safe haven. This enables members to deal better with the stresses of everyday life.

Through the Tribune, we want people to know that, as a support group, we're willing and anxious to assist.

Sincerely,
Barbara Spier,

A birthday 'for the birds'

By BLAINE KANEKO
Cathy Malcolm suspected something 'fowl'.

When she awoke March 18, on her 30th birthday, she had her feathers ruffled by a sight she eagle-eyed out the bedroom window.

Flamingos and penguins of Hitchcockian proportions nested on her thawing downy lawn. Not just a few, but sixty.

"When I woke up this morning and looked out the window I saw penguins looking up at me from the backyard," she chirped. "I felt like just dying. My husband (Steve) was killing himself laughing."

The feathered friends, of Antarctic and tropical origin lined the veranda and patio gawking like mockingbirds as pretty Cathy gingerly stepped around them.

But for the moment she felt she was confined to winging it. "Whoever did this went to a lot of trouble," she agreed. "They know how awful I feel about turning thirty."

In the meantime, she's relegated to pecking at calls from neighbors, friends and onlookers who wonder aloud who perpetrated such a delightfully bird-brained scheme.

However, for weeks, the vultures have been foreshadowing impending mischief. Clippings in The Tribune and the advertising board at Betz Pools warned Cathy of the days proceeding the ides of March.

"It's nice to get all the attention," the Mill Street resident chorused. "It's a birthday I'll never forget."

A suspect and close friend has been identified as the culprit.

Cathy Malcolm, Mill Street, Stouffville, was surrounded by penguins and flamingos when she 'ventured' outside Friday. The surprise party of feathered friends showed up to wish Cathy a happy 30th birthday. It was an early-morning welcome like she never expected and one she'll likely never forget.

Library staff a superb job

Dear Editor:
Too often I read in the local newspapers about how little there is for our young people to do in Stouffville.

At this time, I wish to commend and thank the Whitchurch-Stouffville Public Library staff for all their hard work during March break 'Jabberwocky Jungle Week'.

These ladies not only worked night and day transforming the Library into an authentic jungle scene and selecting and arranging class acts but also managed to smile and assist hundreds of excited children (and their parents) during all eight events.

The quality of entertainment was superb — something for all ages.

Again, my appreciation to members of the Library staff for their extra effort in making this community a unique place in which to bring up our children.

Sincerely,
Julie Boadway
