Altona Mennonite Church

Declared historic site

ALTONA — On Jan. 29, 1986, the Altona Mennonite Church was designated an historic site under the Ontario Heritage Act.

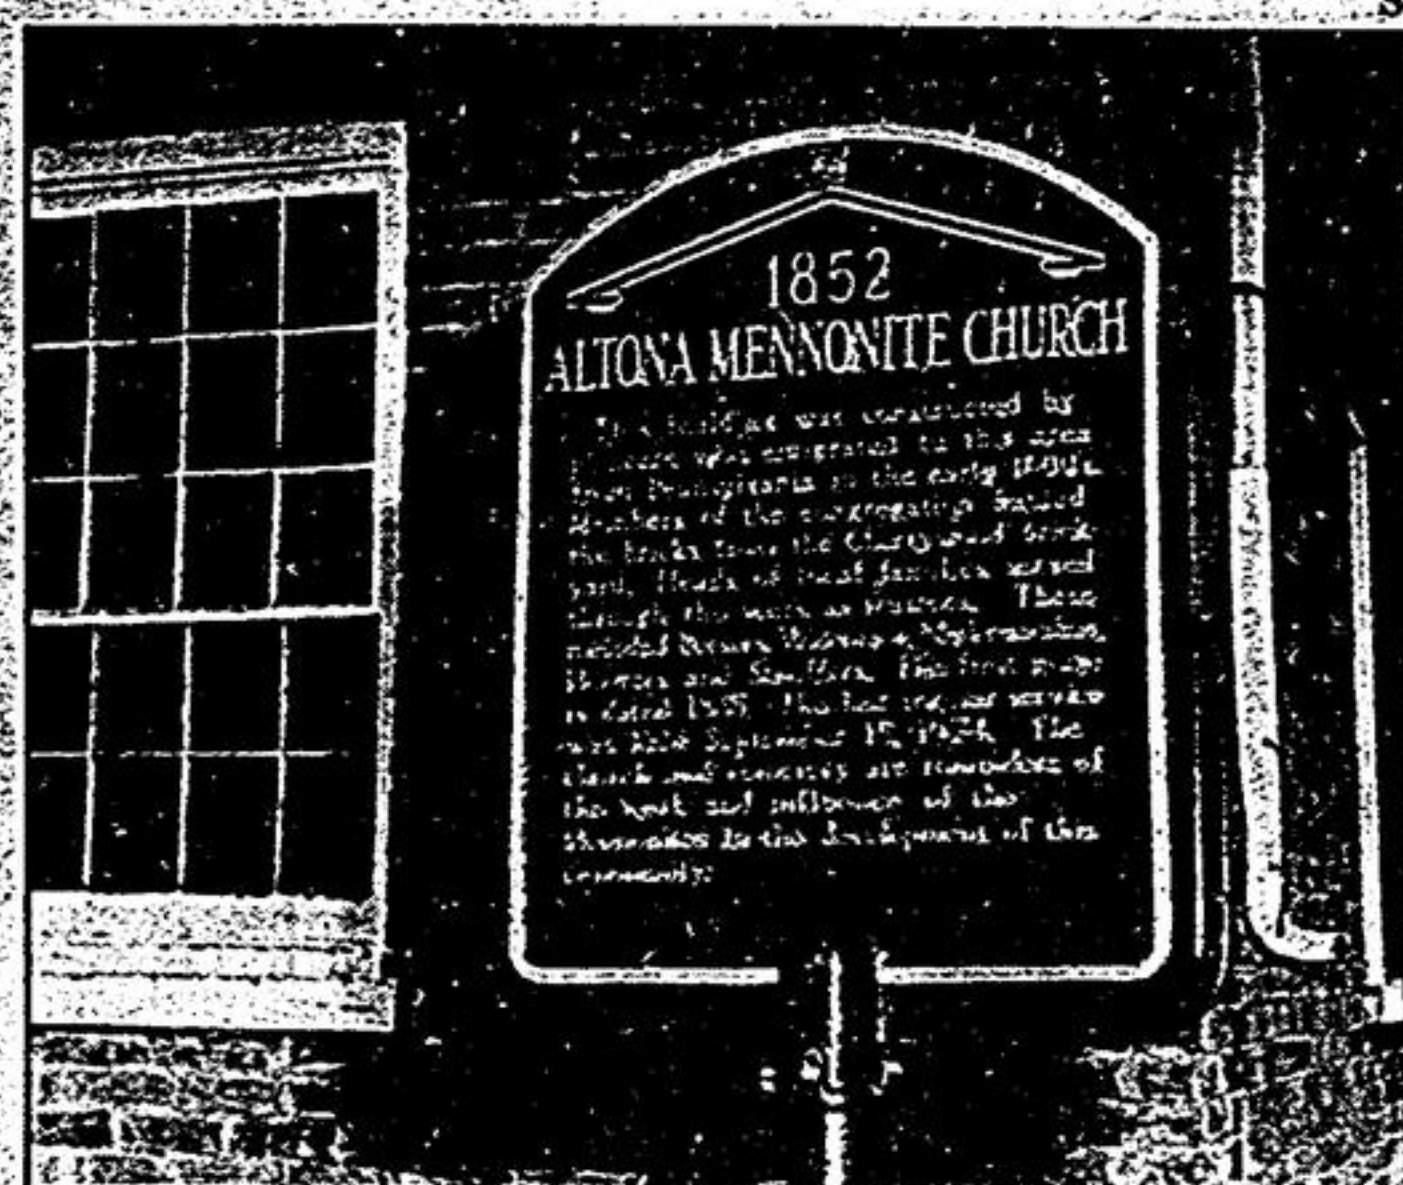

Built in 1852 on the south-east corner of the Uxbridge-Pickering Townline and Sideline 30, the church was used for regular services until Sept. 15, 1974.

The first grave is that of Elizabeth Stouffer, wife of pioneer Abraham Stouffer, Stouffville. It's dated 1835.

The church is maintained by a fund managed by a board of trustees. Maintenance and preservation of the building is possible through the help of donations from groups and individuals. This money can then be matched by equal funds from the Government.

A commemorative plaque was recently erected at the site. It reads:

Altona Mennonite Church — 1852. This building was constructed by pioneers who emigrated to this area from Pennsylvania in the early 1800s. Members of the congregation hauled the bricks from the Cherrywood brickyard. Heads of local families served through the years as trustees. These included Reesors, Widemans, Nighswanders, Hoovers and Stouffers. The first grave is dated 1835. The last regular service was held September 15, 1974. The church and cemetery are reminders of the work and influence of the Mennonites in the development of this community.
