Teacher awarded

Durham teacher Maureen Ham has been awarded the Arn Greene Award by the local chapter of the John Howard Society.

Ms. Ham won the award for her work with students in the Student Alternative Learning for Excused Pupils program, and her participation in numerous community committees and projects for young people.

She is a board member on the Violence Prevention Council of Durham Region, a member of the Child Abuse Policy Committee and the Transition and Retention of Youth Committee.

Ms. Ham is an Oshawa resident who works out of the Sinclair office of the Durham Board of Education in Whitby.

PARTICIPATION DAY CHALLENGE

Whether you are already doing it, Wednesday, May 25, 1988 is the day to do it by running, walking, jumping, moving in the Great Canadian Participation Day Challenge.

For the second year, the Town of Markham and the Town of Vaughan are challenging each other. At least 15 minutes during the day, we want everyone to get up and move. Bike, jog, jump, row, twist, play a game, participate.

Last year, 41% of Canadians from 257 communities registered their participation. Markham's response was overwhelming and this year we expect to do even better.

Have your group organize an activity and then participate. Let's show Vaughan just how eager and energetic Markham residents can be.

Schools and corporations can encourage students and employees to take an exercise break along with their teachers and employers. Any group can help Markham meet the challenge by rising to the occasion through participation.

Once your group has completed its activity, call the Great Canadian Participation Hotline at 886-4630 to register the total number of participants. Make those numbers high.

Activities are already planned for the day and anyone is welcome to join in. The name of the game is PARTICIPATION.

Interested groups are invited to plan, organize and contribute to an event for Participation '89 by calling Susan Stiles at Centennial Community Centre, 294-6111.

Come on Markham. Let's out-distance the competition by participation.
