Discrimination is okay in Catholic system

Dear Editor:

I'm responding to the excellent editorial published in The Tribune issue of June 15 under the heading 'twisted priorities'. The reference was to the hiring of teachers by Public and Catholic School Boards.

The editorial ends with a very interesting question concerning how many Catholic teachers occupy staff positions in York Region Public Schools.

We're forbidden by law from asking questions concerning religious denomination, but the opposite figures would be available from the Catholic School Board because they're allowed to discriminate.

It's my understanding that in Peel Region, the Board showed 35% Catholic employees in the Public School system and two per cent Public employees in the Catholic system.

On a brighter note, you have once again come up with a tremendous article on one of our new teachers. Your paper's support of our educational system has been exceptional throughout the past school year. In my opinion, this has helped our system to be successful.

The past ten months have been rewarding, partly because of the fine work of the parent liaison groups in the five elementary schools. To you and these associations, I offer my heartfelt thanks for support during 1987-88.

Sincerely,

Harry Bowes,
Trustee, Town of Whitchurch-Stouffville
