Editor's Mail

"Acted on advice"

After reading the Page 1 news story, (July 13), where you report Town Council accusing me of 'blackmail', I ran the gamut of emotions extending from hilarity to anger to disgust.

I debated whether such stupidity was worth a response. However, I decided to respond in order to set the record straight.

Obviously, Councillor Robb was indulging in what is possibly the only exercise he ever gets, 'jumping to conclusions' without obtaining all the facts. No wonder the Town seems, at times, to be in such disarray!

The facts that seem to be missing are:

- (1). My letter was the essence of a consensus reached during discussions with the Town Planner.
- (2). The seemingly offensive sentence in the letter was, I believe, a verbatim quotation given me by the planner and was presented as a possible solution, the Town Planner saying: "That he would present the letter without any promises", and my own understanding and acceptance of his position.

- (3). I wasn't asking the Town for a severance at this time. In my opinion, the Council could have accepted the proposal as given without diminishing their right or power to refuse an application for severance at a later date. Thus, the Town could have proceeded with implementation of the bylaw in question. Maybe Councillor Robb with others, could keep his feet on the ground long enough to think that through.

A dining room suite for $8,300? That's right, at an auction sale near Bethany.

The auctioneer was Earl Gauslin of Stouffville.

The walnut suite, purchased by a resident of Gormley, included ten chairs, a table, a china cabinet, a buffet and a hutch.

According to Council's response to this, every "attempt to negotiate" in any situation could be misconstrued as an attempt to blackmail. Where in the world would we be if we all adopted such a stance?

Mr. Editor, was I attempting blackmail or is there a possibility I was being framed?

By the way, thanks for your good reporting.

Sincerely,
Ron Elliott,
Gormley
