

Food, fun and friendship at street party

His look of determination shows that Jason Chong wasn't about to spill the beans, er, peanuts. He participated in a street party for residents of Strathmore Dr. in Markham. Carrying peanuts to the bucket was one of several games for the children.

Good eating was high on the list of participants of Strathmore Drive's street party last Saturday. Above, Rafael Fernandez-Stoll, 11, gets a good bite on his hotdog. Below, even the real young ones came out for this event. Alexander Weller, 2, made quick work of his plate of a hotdog, tortilla chips and pretzels — his idea of a nutritious meal.
