Wrongly criticized

Dear Editor:

Re 'The Tribune's Page 1 story, Aug. 10 under the heading 'Security Probed In Malls' and the accompanying editorial entitled 'Better Mall Security'

Neither of these pieces gave the security industry a fair shake.

You must first understand the security industry as it is today.

Provincial law requires that these people working for a security company be licenced. To be licenced, one must be 19 years of age without a criminal record.

For those people who do not work for a company, there is no law or statute that governs their employment requirements.

Most companies that have contracts with malls have strict guidelines that assist in dealing with lost children. If, after 30 minutes, the child is not found, the police are contacted immediately. It should also be noted that in most cases, the parents are at fault for not watching their children and yet these same parents refuse to pay for a babysitter in a mall.

As to your point that all doors should be secured and manned is, to say the least, absurd. Mall management companies are barely able to pay the escalating costs of security as it is, and to have to pay for at least 10 to 15 staff to man the perimeter doors is ludicrous.

In my five years of security experience, I have found that a small security staff can handle all but the most serious of problems if properly trained.

It is the management of today's malls that are to blame for the incident at The Promenade. Because malls refuse to pay the cost of hiring a security company, and instead hire high school students, situations like this will continue to occur.

I certainly agree with the father that malls are not the nicest places to be, but the measures he suggests will not solve the problem.

I'm not siding with private security staff hired by The Promenade as the private mall does hire inexperienced young people who will work for a smaller hourly wage. It must be pointed out though, that if this problem had occurred where an experienced security officer was available, it would have been handled in a very professional manner.

It should also be noted that the security industry as a whole cannot be criticized due to the experience of two people in one mall.

Sincerely,

Mark Dewar,
