Uxbridge students take part in emergency response drama

Bob Noble props up the wrecked car by blowing air in rubber bags while firefighters rescue a dummy victim from underneath it.

Above, Uxbridge Secondary School students watch the emergency crew work at the scene of the mock accident. This procedure was carried out to determine the ability of emergency workers to respond to a crisis.
