

Stouffville resident Carol Thirgood is confident her new store, House of Linens, will flourish in the new Stouffville Place Mall. A former employee with a large retail chain, Carol decided to step out on her own and open her own retail store. Both she and her husband, Ray, pitched in to help get the store off the ground.

Retail linen business launched in new mall

By JIM THOMAS
Shopping centres are sometimes accused of being cold. Stouffville Place Mall, 535 Main St. West, is shaking that image. Lina Visconti of the Merchants' Association calls it "a warm and friendly place, bridging the gap between children and seniors." Carol Thirgood exemplifies this motto. Carol operates House of Linens, a beautiful shop only a few steps inside the front door. "I stress customer service," says Carol. She also boasts experience, with seven years' previous employment with Sears. "I always wanted my own retail store," explains the personable mother of three. She's happy the location's in Stouffville and pleased Stouffville now has an indoor mall. "Our town is very fortunate to have something like this," she says. Carol's store carries a full line of linen items suited for the living room, dining room, bathroom and kitchen. She also features folk art, a popular choice with people today. Ray and Carol Thirgood reside on Lloyd Avenue, Stouffville. They have two married sons, Michael and Julie; David and Angela; and son Russ, still living at home. Ray, she says, has been a tremendous help. She calls it a husband-wife team. Carol opened up House of Linens five weeks ago and has been pleased with the reception. She employs local, part-time help. Regular mall hours are maintained, 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Friday; Saturdays nine to six. Beginning next month, Christmas hours will swing into effect, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Carol invites shoppers to drop in, if not to buy then to chat. Her warmth and friendliness sells herself. The rest will follow.

TO THE RESIDENTS WARD 3, UNIONVILLE

Congratulations for turning out in such numbers, approx. 49% voter turnout.
