

Hydro's 1989 goals set at meeting

Tree trimming is a top priority in 1989, Whitechurch-Stouffville Hydro's Brian Carter said at Thursday night's meeting of the Hydro Commission.

The job was last undertaken in 1985, he noted, and badly needs to be done again to avoid problems with overhead hydro wires.

Jim Sanders noted that, wherever possible, every effort should be made to plant new trees so they won't interfere with hydro lines.

Carter said he had received one quote for the job, which would cover all electric lines in the village of Stouffville. It was agreed that the project would be put up for tender and a decision on a contractor would be made once the tenders were received.

Among other projects proposed for 1989, said Carter, were rebuilding (installing new poles and wires) in some areas, including Rupert Street from the 9th Line to Parkview Home and Park Street between Mill and Church Streets.

Three new poles were due to go in on Orchard Park Boulevard and new poles were needed on Maytree Avenue and on 9th Line South, Carter said.

He also wants to see rebuilding on Edward Street in 1989 where two new poles had recently been installed.

A new pole would be required at Winona Drive and Main Street to service a new plaza and gas bar. Wayne Emmerson suggested the developer should pay as much of the cost as possible.

Discussion on current computer capacity revealed that the utility's present computer is operating at full strength.

Pat Kuhn noted that the system had been designed to handle billing for 2,000 customers and it now serviced almost 3,000 accounts.

As a result, she said, the utility could not offer customers such facilities as equal billing. Carter noted he would like to be able to use the computer for mapping, but he believed such a program was not available with the current system.

Sanders asked about placing lines underground and Carter replied that in his view the costs far outweighed the purely esthetic advantages.

Maureen Wideman, who chaired the meeting, pointed out that problems are more difficult to deal with when the wires are buried.

Brownies set for big event

By KATE GILDERDALE

One of the biggest events on the Guiding movement's calendar, Thinking Day, is coming up Sunday, Feb. 19, and this year's local celebration is being held at Christ Church Anglican.

"It's a celebration of Lord and Lady Baden-Powell (founders of the Guiding and Scouting movement)," explains Brownie leader Angie Mayer, who is organizing the event. "Each pack will be doing a five minute stint."

This year's theme is friendship and the different groups will recite their own stories, songs and poems.

"My pack had to think up one word related to friendship. Each girl will give her word and an older girl will explain it," Mrs. Mayer says.

The girls will also sing a song and the Beavers will probably also sing a short piece, she states.

Reverends Wayne Reed, Bryan Coker, Paul Scuse, Glenn Gibson and Herb Gale are expected to attend, and Mrs. Mayer also hopes to welcome Rev. Craig Pitts. The ceremony will start at 2 p.m.
