Local diehards step out to play ball

Frigid temperatures didn't stop Stouffville baseball fans from taking to the diamond last weekend for a few innings of off-season fun. The Blizzard of Oz squad battled Freddy's Frosted Flakes, while the Royals took on the Ruptured Ducks in some zany games of 'snowball' — an apt title for the game. At home plate (below), Rhonda Barrett is the picture of concentration as she knocks the ball to the infield before taking off for first base. In a separate play, Catherine Gordon is declared safe at first (right) as Dinetta Morton chases a loose ball. Meanwhile, shortstop Brian Conly is in full control as he lobs a throw to second for the out. Cheryl Johnston (left) had a little trouble trapping the ball during a play in the Ruptured Ducks versus the Royals match but, clad in earmuffs, at least stayed warm during the play. At the sidelines were spectators, scorekeepers and curious onlookers. Between innings, Cheryl Johnston (below left) decided to take a few shots for posterity while below right, Cheryl Hogg keeps score. In all, the event was a rousing, if not frosty, success.
