

Markham Heating
 & AIR CONDITIONING SYSTEMS
 172 Bullock Drive Unit 27, Markham
 471-1748

Tribune
Focus
 Serving Whitchurch-Stouffville

Community
 Sports
 Leisure
 Entertainment

FOR A FREE
 PROPERTY
 EVALUATION
 CALL IAN BATT
 440-4568
 RE/MAX IMPERIAL REALTY LTD.

A Metroland Community Newspaper

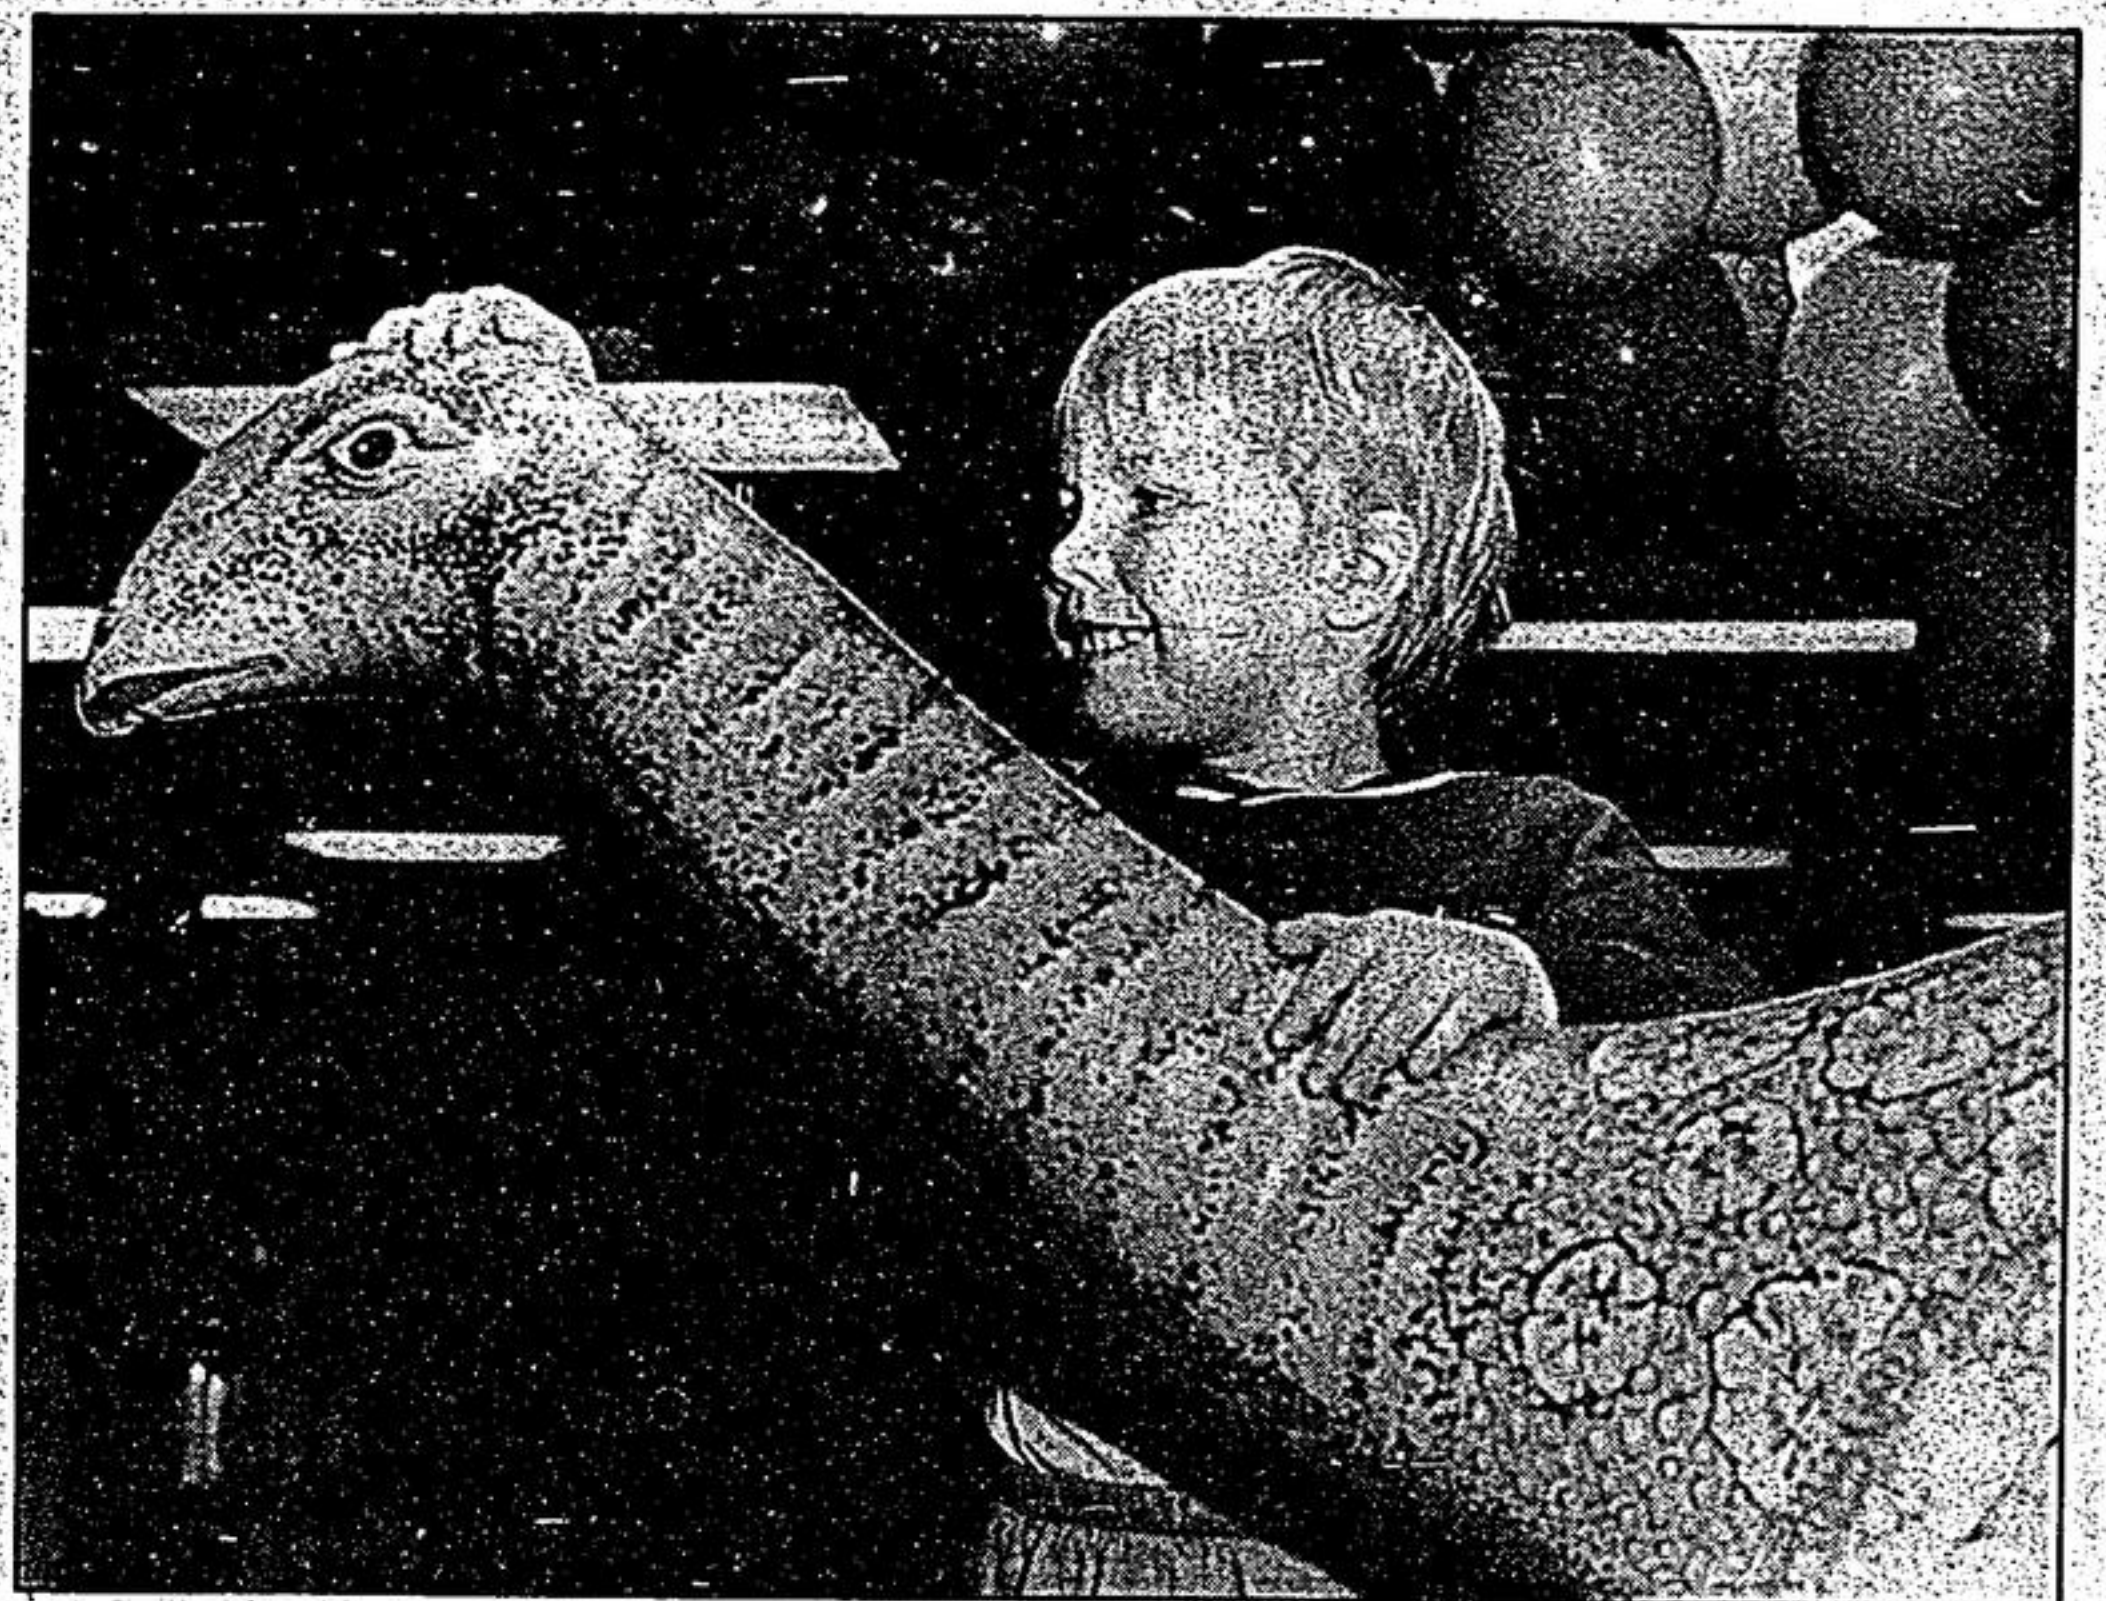

Wednesday, March 29, 1989

DINOSAUR DAZE

Stouffville youngsters stepped back into prehistoric times during the school break last week to become acquainted with the inhabitants of that long-ago era. Dinosaurs of the friendly variety were on hand at a Whitchurch-Stouffville Public Library display for kids to have some hands-on fun. Here, Danielle James, 20 months, says hello to a Tyrannosaurus Rex as mother Brenda holds her for a baby's-eye view.

Photos by Jim Thomas

This small, friendly-looking dinosaur was a ready friend for Jonathan Paynter, 3, of R.R. 4 Stouffville. Here, he gives his scaly pal a pat on the head.

Tiny puppet dinosaurs provided some entertainment for four-year-old Nicolette Parsons (above left) at the library. Puppeteer Doreen D'Eath of Pinafore Puppet Theatre had Sweetikins and Dexter to keep Nicolette smiling. At another display, Philip McComiskey hugs a smiling dinosaur.

A baby dinosaur just hatching from his egg was of interest to Brock Corrigan, 3, of Rupert Ave. in Stouffville. Kids had a number of displays at the Dinosaur Daze event to keep them busy during the school break.

Danielle Mason, 2½, was a little wary of this prehistoric crocodile which her mother, Suzanne, stopped to visit at the library. Danielle didn't want to have any limbs in the way should the croc's jaws decide to snap shut.

Bottom line
 Farmer Jack's expands roots in Stouffville
 See Page C-3

Literacy
 Local kids show they're write on
 See Page C-10

Planning
 Library set for future endeavors
 See Page C-14