

Aussie teen warms up to Stouffville

from her homeland has turned out to be an experience of a lifetime.

According to the 17-year-old Australian native, she responded to a home town Rotary Club's newspaper offer to send a teenager abroad for a year. Once chosen, she was delighted when the service club was able to arrange for the time to be spent in Canada, Julie's first choice of a foreign destination.

The Unionville Rotary Club arranged her accommodations, and she arrived at the home of Heather and Christopher Diamond in Ballantrae this past January.

"It was 40 degrees Celsius when I left Australia," she recalls. "And even though they told me it was a mild winter when I arrived here, I found it quite cold."

But while the climate may be frigid, Julie has been more than impressed by the warmth and hospitality she's received in the Stouffville area.

After three months with the Diamonds, during which time she enrolled as a student at Stouffville District Secondary School, she moved on to her next family in Markham.

"It's been great so far," says

Julie of her experience. "I've met a lot of wonderful people."

Her itinerary has included a trip to Ottawa with other teens involved in the international Rotary exchange program, and several outings to Toronto.

Julie enjoyed her first ever cross-country skiing adventure, and even got up on skates.

She is scheduled to take a trip out west this summer with the other Rotary teens, returning via the United States. Then it will be up north to experience the lakes of cottage country.

And the whole venture has been equally rewarding for Heather Diamond, the SDSS student whose house Julie lived in her first three months here.

"It's been different and interesting for us to see how they live in Australia compared to how we live here," says Heather. "She's become a good friend."

We've got a lot in common. Julie is looking forward to the warmer months of summer, but wants to see more snow before she leaves next January.

"I am hoping for a white Christmas."
