Local musicians entertain at Economist and Sun party

Among the many bands appearing at the Economist and Sun's Canada Day picnic July 1 is Roxyn. This band has been appearing at local bars and taverns throughout the last year.

The band has played Trader Sam's in Port Perry, P.J's in Scarborough, Nag's Head in Toronto, CJ's in Markham, and Maxim's in Uxbridge.

Tom Craig (lead singer and bass guitarist) has lived in Markham for most of his life, and has established himself in the local "jam" scene. It was in fact, the local jam night at O'Tooles in Markham (which Tom hosted with a previous band) that brought Craig together with lead guitarist Matt Grant in July, 1988. Craig can occasionally be seen on a Sunday night at the Duchess, participating in jam night there. Grant had been playing for several years in the Port Perry area with a number of different bands before combining talents with the group.

On drums is John Blasetti from Unionville, who has played in several bands ranging from '60s to '80s rock and roll. Roxyn covers the material of bands like AC/DC, Triumph, Def Leppard, the Beatles, and Chuck Berry as well as their own originals. The band has recently finished a month of rehearsals on new material at Black Diamond Studios. Roxyn has several upcoming engagements in the local and Toronto bar circuits, and are planning to record their own originals soon.
