

Music Mania brings songs to festival

In addition to offering songs and a skit for the Strawberry Festival during the Streetscape opening ceremonies, members of Music Mania are inviting everyone to join them for a musical afternoon on Saturday, July 1st, under the trees outside the library.

"They'll be playing various instruments and singing songs. They want to encourage others to bring their own instruments so they can take part as well," explains chorus member Sandra Stronach. "They'll have an easel with a sheet to show people which chords to play."

The minstrels will provide delightful outdoor entertainment to the crowds and give aspiring musicians and singers the opportunity to air their own talents. If you'd like to take part, or simply come along and enjoy the music, drop by any time from 1:30 on.

All pets welcome at contest

Pet owners will get a chance to show off their faithful companions at the Strawberry Festival's Pet Contest, in front of Bunny's and Lyndy's Florist on Main Street East at 2 p.m. Saturday, July 1st.

Sponsoring this popular annual event are the Stouffville Bahais, with ribbons and "loonies" offered for the winners in all seven categories, as well as a trophy for best all-round pet. The categories are as follows:

The pet with the cutest nose, beak, etc.; the pet that looks most like its owner; the pet with the longest hair; the pet with the best trick; the pet with the most unusual coloring; the friendliest pet and the most unusual pet.

"It's not a big competition," stresses organizer Jill Leopard. "It's just for fun." Whether it's a ferret or a feline, all entries are welcome, so bring your pal along and enjoy the show.
