

Community

Close-Up

Rutledge Jewellers
Uxbridge Full Service Jewellers
852-7846

Bazaar Saturday

It was truly a bazaar weekend in and around Stouffville. Several groups put on annual craft and bargain sales around the area. Above, Louise Denovan (left) gets some help from Carole White at the annual Stouffville United Church bazaar. Baked goods, a host of crafts and other items were on sale in the church basement. Below, Margaret Arsenault of Dickson Hill (right) chats with Cindi Schwarzli and her daughter Heidi, 6, during the Calico Kitten craft sale this past weekend. More than 1,500 items between $1.50 and $40 were on sale at the Boxer St. location.

Photos by Rick Madonik

Above, Marjorie Barc of Ballantrae surveys a small selection of the crafts on sale at the second annual Needles and Nails craft show on Stouffville Rd., just west of Kennedy Rd. Below, Glenn Painter, 8, took a break from the booth he was helping to man at the Stouffville United Church bazaar to try his luck at the fish pond. The fishing booth was run by the Explorers group. Twin sisters Ashligh and Kristin Duggan, both 8, kept an eye on the pond Saturday.

Above, at right, Jean Hosie, (right) chats with some customers at the United Church bazaar, held over the weekend. With Christmas approaching and plenty of bargains to be had, the bazaars held around Stouffville this weekend were once again, a success.

