

Uxbridge Kinsmen celebrate

Uxbridge area Kinsmen turned out for the service club's annual dinner and Chinese Auction last Thursday and had a rip-roarin' good time. Several items were up for grabs at the event and some lucky Kinsmen, like Terry Chapman (bottom photo), came away with a little memento of the evening. He won this impressive cap in a draw. At right, auctioneer Harry Hudson cries "Sold" while running things at the front.

SLATE: Three-piece, precision ground slate provides a permanent level playing surface. Slate is precision-matched level to within 10/1000 of an inch and extends underneath the rails for consistent play.

CLOTH: Quality wool/nylon blend billiard cloth resists wear and tear and assures good playability.

SIGHTS: Inlaid sights have a maximum tolerance of 30/1000 of an inch for accurate play.

CUSHIONS: Centennial cushions are precision molded to assure maximum accuracy and true ball rebound.

RAILS: Burn, stain and scratch-resistant rails are supported by and bolted through the slate for maximum rigidity. The floating nut plate design allows rail to be precisely positioned and permanently pulled to the slate.

BASE FRAME: Base frame is composed of four cross support beams, two full length side beams, and a center beam for lasting strength.

All specifications subject to change without notice.
