New executive for annual Markham Fair

Once Carol White became involved in the Markham Fair, there was no looking back for the Whitevale resident.

And, last week she was named the 1990 president of the Fair, following the annual meeting on Wednesday.

In her acceptance speech, White said that her involvement started in 1975 when she decided she could enter her crafts in the Fair and win.

Two years later she headed the crafts and antiques section. "Once the Fair bug bites you, you're a long time getting over it," she said.

She has served on the Fair's executive committee and was 1st
