New business in Stouffville

W/S Museum needs helpers

If you or someone you know is looking for an interesting and different volunteer opportunity, think about the Whitchurch-Stouffville Museum. Projects are designed for different interests and times available.

Training is provided for each project. This morning, May 9 from 10 to noon, there will be an informative talk begin given at the Whitchurch-Stouffville Museum for those who are considering volunteering. The history of the museum and how you can become a part of its development will be complimented by a short talk on the lifestyle represented in the recently opened restored farmhouse.
