

Lots of interest in summer reading adventure

It's been less than a week that the children have been out of school and already they are asking about signing up for the Summer Reading Adventure.

This adventure is like a giant gameboard. No dice with this game. All it takes to move through the eight steps is to read one book for each theme.

Of course, that's a little more challenging than it sounds.

Finding books is always a challenge, and young adults have their favourites, such as Francine Pascal and R. L.

Stine.

If you've read all these and are looking for some new authors, look in the JPB (Juvenile paperback) for some of these authors.

For mysteries, Caroline B. Cooney, Peter Nelson, David Adler, or Bonnie Pryor.

For a sports theme, there's Matt Christopher, Dean Hughes, writer of the Angel Park Stars and there's also a Saddle Club series for young people with horse interests.

LIBRARY NEWS

For something perhaps a little adventurous, we have the Young Indiana Jones Chronicles series, written by a few different authors.

If you like a little science with your adventure, then you may like to try Victor Appleton or Monica Hughes.

An interesting genre in the Young Adult literature is that of 'social issues.'

These are some that adults would probably like to share with their young adults.

Fran Arrick, Where'd you get the Gun, Billy?, Mary Jane Miller, Me and My Name, Mary Francis Shura, Some Kind of Friend, Paula Danziger, Earth to Matthew, and Carolina B. Cooney, Face on the Milk Carton... these are all interesting subjects that young adults enjoy exploring through fiction.

If you are still stumped about what to read, you can also check the Emergency Librarian, or CM, which are two Canadian magazines which have wonderful lists and reviews of Juvenile and Young Adult Material.

York Region Dental Society cares about your teeth!

In York Region, the dental society is actively involved in the promotion of dental health in schools, malls, at local events, and most notably, in the Dentistry with a Heart campaign.

Dentistry with a Heart is a program in which the dentists volunteer their time to provide free dentistry for those in need.

This has been an increasingly successful program for five years. This year almost five hundred patients were treated.

For more information about dental health, see your York Region Dental Society member-dentist.
