

Casey takes over operation of Stouffville bowling lanes

The Stouffville Bowling Centre has a new owner.

Conn Casey, an Aurora resident, took over the operation of the Main St., Stouffville five-pin facility from previous owner Gary Ringwood on Sept. 1.

Casey, himself a bowler, is a member of the Professional Bowlers Association (PBA).

He won the Rothman's PBA Tournament in 1989. Casey also owns the Aurora Bowl.

Casey told the Tribune he plans to make several changes to the business.

One of those, he reveals, will be to expand the food counter into a full service snack bar offering hot dogs, hamburgers, french fries, nachos, etc.

He will also apply for a liquor license, and will extend the centre's hours of operation from noon til midnight seven days a week.

Greg Kehoe has been appointed manager of the centre.

The centre will continue to operate its Youth Bowling Council program for junior bowlers, while adult leagues will continue to run Monday through Thursday nights.

The centre is looking for new bowlers for existing leagues, and is also open to the establishment of new leagues, Casey told the Tribune.

Locals bowl up a storm

Elmer Farthing, Glenda Dunkeld, and Ron Rodgers of the Stouffville Lawn Bowling Club won high score for two games at the Schell Lumber Tournament held Sept. 11 at the Stouffville facility.

Dunc Ball's Richmond Hill team took the overall honours at the event, Bruce Barton's Uxbridge green earning the high one game award.

Stouffville's Elmer and Doris Farthing teamed up to win the I.G.A. Trophy at an Uxbridge tournament Sept. 9.

On Sept. 4, local bowlers Paul Muir, Jim Travis, and Eleanor Crossen won the second high score for three games at another competition in Uxbridge.

Mountain bikers set to tackle Durham Durango Enduro event

Mountain bikers take to the hills for the first ever Durham Durango Enduro Sunday.

The fun event will offer a 40-kilometre course for novice and intermediate riders, and a 65-km. loop for intermediate and expert mountain bikers.

Both courses begin at Pleasure Valley, winding through the Glen Major property, the Durham Forest, and the Walker property, which is the site of a new hiking trail.

Organizer Eric Orschel says the Uxbridge mountain bike racer who also organized last March's Uxbridge Ice Breaker Enduro, the Durango is a fun challenge event.

"We just want to get more people involved in the sport," said Orschel, a physical education teacher at Dunbarton H.S. "We're looking for 150-225 riders. There will be $1,200 in draw prizes, but there are no prizes for finishing first."

The Durango is being held in co-operation with Pleasure Valley, the Metropolitan Toronto Conservation Authority, and officials from the Durham Forest. It is being sanctioned by the Ontario Cycling Association.

Participants can preregister for $20 by picking up an Enduro flyer at Muskoka Fine Water Craft in Uxbridge, or at Old Firehall Sports in Unionville.

Registration costs $25 the day of the event, with riders asked to sign up between 8 and 9 a.m. at the Pleasure Valley starting point. The 65-km. event begins at 9:30 a.m., while the 40 km. ride starts at 9:45. All riders will receive a t-shirt and barbecued snacks.

A $5 Pleasure Valley park entry fee will also be charged.
