Oom-pah-pah! Oktoberfest's back

KATE GILDERDALE
Correspondent

Oktoberfest '93, presented by the Whitchurch-Stouffville Chamber of Commerce, offers a great opportunity for residents to get together and enjoy a weekend of music and entertainment right here in town. Stouffville Country Flea Market will be the venue for a variety of events, from dances to talent contests, with a chance to win some terrific prizes along the way. The celebration kicks off at 8 p.m. Friday, Oct. 15 with a dance under the big top tent at the front of the market.

Live music will be performed by the Danube Swabian Brass Band, a group which has proved to be a popular attraction at previous events.

A disc jockey will also be on hand to play from a great selection of music, encompassing everything from classic hits and country favorites to rock and roll.

"We'll have all types of music for all ages," advised the market's manager Rob Shannon, who is co-chairing the Oktoberfest Committee with Brian Littlejohns of Total Design.

"On Saturday afternoon we'll have a talent contest and on Sunday afternoon there'll be a karaoke contest. In total there are five mini-trips to be given away as prizes," said Shannon.

The trips have been donated by local businesses. Contests will take place in the big top tent between noon and 5 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 16 and Sunday, Oct. 17 and admission to both events is free.

A second dance will be held Saturday evening from 8 p.m. until 1 a.m., and throughout the weekend visitors can enjoy traditional Oktoberfest fare, including sausages, sauerkraut and draft beer, as well as wine.

Tickets for the Friday and Saturday night dances are $5 each and are available from The Tribune, the Chamber of Commerce and local merchants.

Shannon believes Oktoberfest has the potential to become as important a part of the community calendar as the Strawberry Festival, "and the more we can get everybody involved, the better it will be," he stressed.

"We're also trying to involve as many of the local service clubs as we can - the Lions and Kinsmen have taken blocks of tickets. We'd like as many different groups as possible to join us in making this a success," said Shannon.
