local students before heading into a two-hour concert joining 500 students from the high school band; Summitview Public School choir, band and dancers; Orchard Park Public School band; St. Mark's Catholic School's 100-voice choir; and the Dickson Hill and Stouffville Christian School bands.

The audience will also hear vocal and instrumental duets between band and choir numbers and can enjoy refreshments during intermission.

The event is free but donations will be accepted and proceeds divided between the six schools for musical improvements.

Thomas said the Stouffville Lion's Club, the Progress Club and the Latham Foundation of Stouffville has also donated funds for the schools.

information I need.

"They'll answer any questions about your horses."

The Equine Research Centre holds seminars about six times a year, and the next one will take place Oct. 30.

"Their topic is the mare and foal, and they're bringing in speakers from England and a vet from Sunderland."
