Halloween dance put on by Kinettes

KATE GILDERDALE
Correspondent

The Kinette Club of Stouffville invites everyone to attend the group's second annual Halloween Dance and Costume Party, which takes place Friday, Oct. 29 at the Masonic Hall on Ninth Line North.

"It's a costume party for those who want to dress up, but if people prefer not to, that's fine," noted past president Sue Smith.

The evening will include sandwiches and desserts, and couples will have the opportunity to win some great spot prizes as they dance the night away.

Proceeds will be donated to the Whitchurch-Stouffville Food Bank, said Smith.

"One of our major goals is to help them - we gave them $500 from the dance last year and we'll be doing the same thing again."

When the Kinettes approached the food bank, they learned that November was a particularly lean time for donations, she noted.

"It's after Thanksgiving and before the Christmas drive and we'd like to help fill the gap when they don't have much coming in." The Kinettes also support the Canadian Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

Members were delighted with the success of last year's dance and hope the community will support them again this year. Tickets are available from Card's Hardware and the main branch of the Toronto Dominion Bank at $25 for a couple and $15 for singles.

A cash bar will be open during the dance, which runs from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m.

People interested in learning more about the Kinettes are welcome to attend one of their meetings, said Smith.

"They can come and see what we're all about and whether they'd be interested in getting involved."
