Lee Weldon
Associate Broker

Lee Weldon finds it hard to believe that 17 years have passed since she became a licensed real estate agent. "The business is just as challenging and fulfilling today as it was in the early years," says Lee.

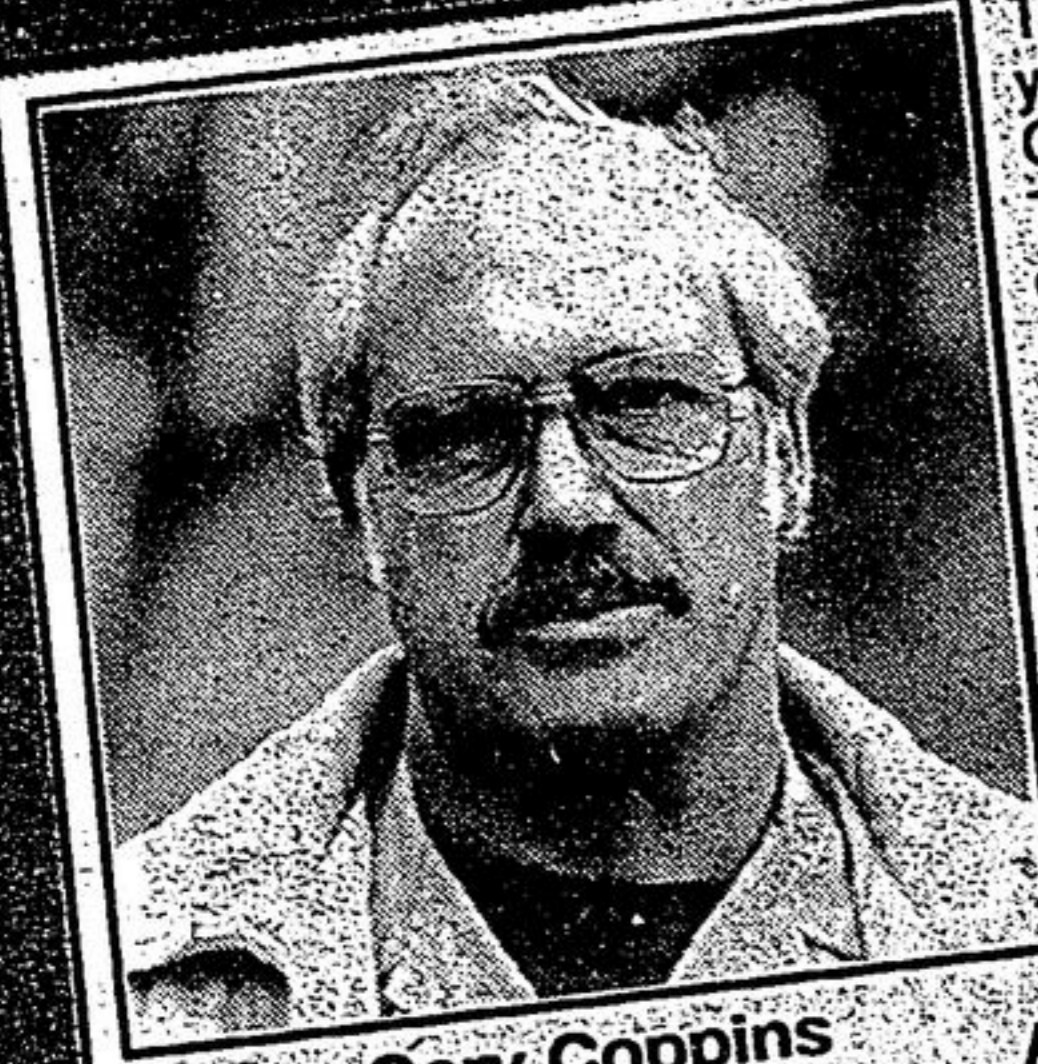

"Each client's needs are unique and individual allowing for a different path to each and every successful transaction."

Lee believes that honesty and fairness in combination with enthusiasm and market knowledge is what today's real estate clientele seek most in an agent.

"I keep those things in mind and do my utmost to deliver."

She enjoys showing and selling small town and country properties.

Lee is an Associate Broker with Re/Max Scugog Realty Ltd. in Uxbridge. 852-6143 or 510-1284.

Barb Pratt
Blue Heron Books

8 Church St.
852-4282

Blue Heron Books has been on Church St. in Uxbridge for 4 years. In that time a large number of customers have developed the habit of dropping in on a regular basis to see what's new, to browse, to chat, and to buy books. Barb Pratt has a knack for suggesting just the right book for each customer, whether it's for information and reference, or to give as a "perfect gift," or to curl up with on a rainy weekend.

The store stocks over 4500 titles, most of them current and up-to-date, with of course, some of the classics that no self-respecting bookstore could be without. The separate children's room is filled with about a thousand quality children's books, chosen with care and sensitivity. Barb will special order any book that is not in stock, usually at no extra charge.

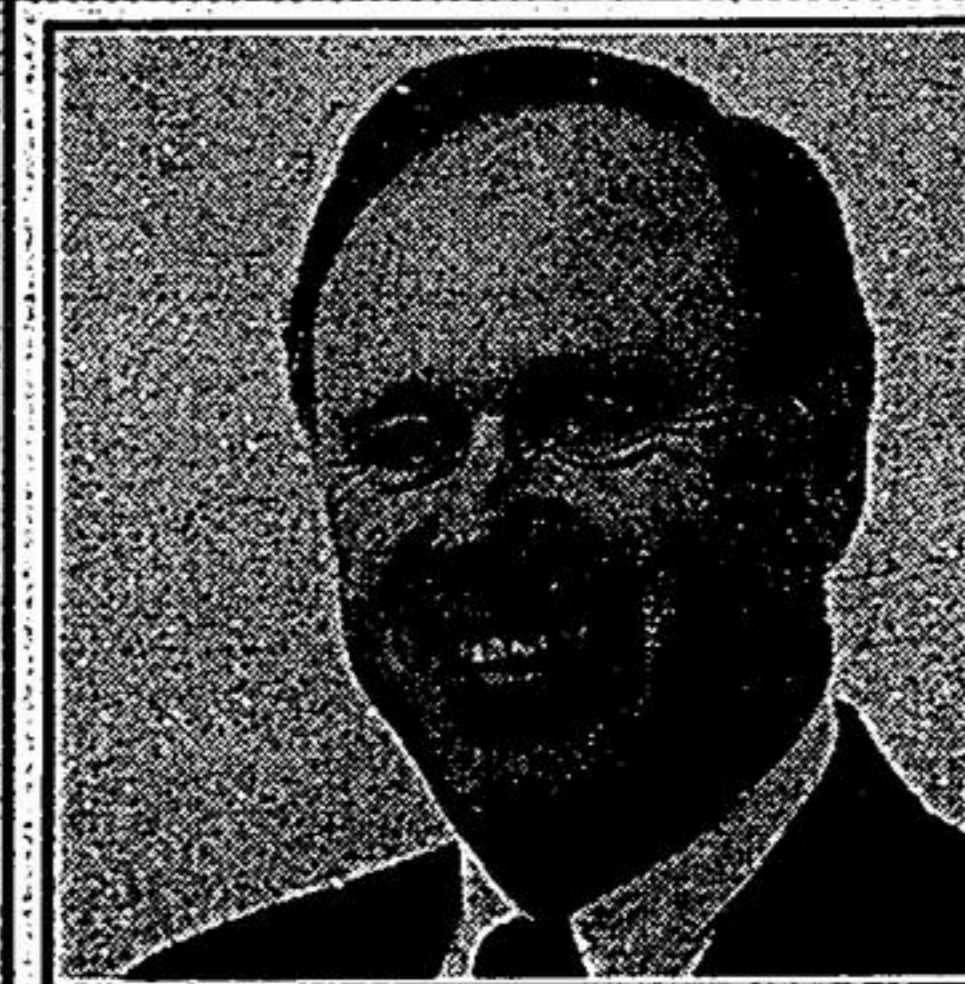

Sarah Reid, knowledgeable book person, serves in the store every Monday. Every day Sindbad the cat watches over activities on the front counter, suffering with great dignity all the disparaging remarks concerning his size and weight.
