

Oh, the weather outside was frightful...

1993 Santa Claus Parade

Santa Claus was ushered into town with the customary pomp and circumstance on Saturday, but this year, the weather failed to cooperate. Rain kept the roads and floats damp, but not the spirits of holiday revelers. At top, right; Chris Caldeira and Erik Wiwchar sold baked goods at the parade for the Stouffville Top Spot bake sale. At top left, Christopher Nikoladis and Amanda Bell found a way to keep semi-dry - in a tent. Here, they wave at Santa as he makes his way down Main St. At left, from left, Karen Rae, Karen Burkholder, Calvin Rae and Pastor Lou Greense served up hot drinks to some chilly parade watchers at the Stouffville Missionary Church table. Above, Schell Lumber's float sported a familiar purple dinosaur.

Photos by Celia Bronkhorst