

Markham Vacuum Centre sweeps into town

The vacuum cleaner salesman has been the target of almost as many jokes and insults as the beleaguered used car salesman. Comic sketches feature doors slamming in the face of a bumbling shyster entangled in a web of vacuum cleaner hose.

At Markham Vacuum Centre, life does not imitate art.

Open just four months, Markham Vacuum Centre is in a bright new showroom located on Hwy. 7, just west of Main Street in Unionville.

The shop specializes in Eureka central vacuums, both central systems, as well as portable canister, upright and hand-held models. The shop also carries a large selection of accessories for all makes including bags and belts.

Qualified staff can repair all makes and models of central and portable vacuums, often with a one day turnaround, depending on the availability of parts, said manager George Reid.

Markham Vacuum Centre does not employ subcontractors. The shop is owned by Bob Hunwicks and Dave Townson, who are also full-time installers. Between the three of them, George, Dave and Bob, the trio have 30 years experience in the business.

Anyone who has ever owned a central vacuum system does not need to be told of the conveniences it offers.

There is no lugging of awkward, heavy equipment from room to room; just a lightweight hose that can be plugged easily into outlets in each room.

The system can be custom fit to any house any wall, even into older homes, without any structural damage. There is a system to fit any home from the tiniest to homes of 20,000 sq. ft.

There is also an added benefit, Reid pointed out. Because the dust is carried out to the garage of the home, allergy sufferers are not subjected to it circulating in the home.

Markham Vacuum Centre offers free estimates with no obligation to buy on central vacuum systems. In-home service calls are also available on central systems.

The shop also carries NuTone intercoms, fans and door chimes.

George Reid would like to welcome his old customers to see him in his new position as manager of Markham Vacuum Centre.
