For a vacation to remember

Once considered the domain of the rich, cruises are quickly becoming the most popular vacation option for couples and families at all income levels. Last year approximately 3,000,000 people chose to cruise, and the numbers are expected to surge to 19,000,000 in the future. Because of this increase in popularity, at least three mega-ships - at an approximate cost of $300,000,000 apiece - are expected to come onstream annually, thus increasing the current figure from 230 to more than 260 ships total by the year 1997.

So what is it that is convincing more and more people to abandon landlubbing for the high seas? According to Ping Lee, owner of Cruise Holidays in Markham, there are many factors contributing to cruising's increased popularity. First and foremost, meals (and in-between snacks), quality nighttime entertainment, and a full itinerary of daytime activities. Dining on most ships is comparable to dining in a five-star restaurant, said Lee, and special diets - (vegetarian, diabetic, and kosher) can be accommodated if advance notice is given. As far as activities go, there are generally 75 different programs per day to choose from. You can join in exercise or dance classes, practice your tennis, drive golf balls, shoot some skeet or basketballs, work out in the gym, play
