D'Ornellas Mountain Bike Race Sunday

Organizers are expecting as many as 200 riders for the first annual D'Ornellas Mountain Bike Race tomorrow.

The race takes place in the Durham Forest, starting on Conc. 7, six miles south of Uxbridge.

Novice, expert/elite, and sport riders will be participating. The novices get underway at 10:30 a.m., and will do one loop of the 11-kilometre course, which is made up of roads and hiking trails.

The sport class, which starts at 3 p.m., will do two times around the course, while the expert/elite class, beginning at 12:30 p.m., goes three loops.

The Ontario Cycle Association sanctioned cross-country event costs $20 to enter (cadets $15). Once day licences will be available for sport or novice racers for a $10 fee.

Uxbridge competitive cyclist Adam Ruppel, who is organizing the race, is optimistic it will be a well-attended event.

"We're expecting a good turnout," he said. "It's a good time of year for it because riders are anxious to get out and ride."

Racers can register on race day up to one hour before starting time.

The starting area is on Conc. 7, just south of Durham Road 21, between Brock Road and Durham Road 23.
