

Shovel snow to sides

Dear Editor,

The problem that I wish to address is the irresponsible actions of the people of Markham who shovel their snow back onto the road.

Every time we receive a heavy enough snow fall for the plows to come around I see dozens of people on my own street shovelling the pile of snow at the bottom of the drives back onto the road.

Why must these people insist on doing this. To those of us who shovel our snow to the sides of our driveways, this is a major pet peeve.

Not only that but an unnecessary road hazard. I don't think it's because these people are lazy because people with snow blowers do it also.

I hope that from this letter people will get the idea that the snow plows do us a favor by clearing the roads, and if most of us can shovel the snow to the sides then what makes these people an exception.

Perhaps these people should think about that. No wonder why people like myself honk and look at you like you're an idiot.
