

Lawnie's other interests go well beyond the scope of music

Ottawa to be part of a benefit concert which is to be televised nationally.

Lawnie and her father fit together like a hand in a glove. They share the same passion for music, with Dad acting as manager, coach, producer, and father all rolled into one.

Both share the common goal of breaking into the North American new country mainstream, individually and as a team.

And while Lawnie is hell bent and determined to make it, she's not willing to sell her soul in the process. For Lawnie, music is the biggest part of her life at this point to be sure. But that doesn't mean she's going to close the door on the other challenges life has to offer.

Those would include her love of things athletic. As an elementary school student at Balantrae Public School, she would regularly finish first in races.

Last year as a Grade 9 student at Stouffville District Secondary School, she helped the Midget girls' volleyball team win the York Region championships.

She had the golden touch again this year, playing a key role as the school's Junior girls' team went all the way at the regional finals.

And if she can't make it in music or athletics, then there's theatre arts, as she is enthusiastically throwing herself into her drama class at school this year. But with any luck, these secondary interests will remain just that. With a healthy ambition and a talent which must be seen to be fully appreciated, Lawnie Wallace could well be on her way to stardom in a musical field which is attracting an ever growing crowd of appreciative converts.
