

It Took Us 147 Years to Get to Uxbridge.

Since the Laurentian Bank of Canada was founded in 1846, it has grown to become the seventh largest domestic bank in Canada, with almost $10 billion in assets and more than two hundred branches.

But it wasn't until the recent acquisition of General Trust that we have been able to offer the people of this community our full range of banking services. And now that we're here, we plan to continue in our tradition of providing the best in personal and dedicated service to our clients. A tradition that was started 147 years ago.
