Sample a taste of Europe at the new and improved Attica Bakery in Unionville.

Rich with the aromas of baking bread, and other treats, Attica Bakery has been under new ownership for over two months. Visitors to the shop are in for a tasty surprise.

The display cases are filled with Greek pastries like baklava, almond cookies, short-breads, Ouzo-flavored cookies and more. The cakes are made from scratch with a choice of custard, whipped cream or icing filling.

In addition to a full line of imported groceries, the deli counter features a variety of different types of feta (and other) cheeses, olives, pressed yogurt and tzatziki and cold meats.

New owners Tom and Mike Valavanis were raised in a bakery, like their father Peter before them. Eighteen years ago, when the brothers were 10 and three respectively, weekends were spent in their father's new bakery at St. Clair and Kennedy Rd. in Toronto. Since that time, the popularity of the original bakery has grown and the brothers have learned well under their father's experienced hand. Choosing to follow in his footsteps, the brothers expanded their father's Toronto operation one month ago, and purchased the Unionville location.

Good news travels fast, so they say, and in just a few short weeks, word has spread about their superb bread, cakes and pastries.

Attica Bakery's bread - priced at just 99 cents a loaf - is baked fresh everyday. Leftovers at the end of the day are donated to the Markham Food Bank.

"To make it good, it's got to be natural," said Tom. "That's what our father always told us." And the brothers are proud to carry on the same tradition today. Unlike many bakeries, their bread is made from scratch, not mixes, using techniques passed on from their father.

It may take longer, but it's well worth it because of the taste, said Mike.

The same attention to quality is shown in every aspect of the operation. Floors, windows and display cases are washed every day. Customers are greeted with a smile and some friendly conversation. Special requests are welcomed.

Attica Bakery is located in New Kennedy Square, just south of Hwy. 7 on Kennedy Road at the north end of the plaza. Hours are 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Wednesday to Saturday and Sunday 7 a.m. to 6 p.m.
