Obstetrics unit opens

The new Markham Stouffville Hospital Obstetrical Assessment Unit opened this month. From the left are expectant mom Melissa Railton, clinical nurse Birthplace Cathie Sockett, expectant dad Steve Railton (The Railtons have since had a daughter) and obstetrician Dr. George Arnold, a driving force behind its establishment. Arnold had trained at Women's College and was involved with a similar unit. The emphasis is on comfort, not cold sterility say the staff and patients are given a little reassurance before proceeding to the Birthplace. The unit is open 24 hours a day seven days a week and within nine days of opening, 56 women had made use of the facility.
