

Sutton tractor pull attracts drivers from Canada and U.S.

The third annual Georgina Clay Clash Truck and Tractor Pull goes next weekend at the Sutton fairgrounds featuring a number of top drivers including current Pro-National Champion Judy Knipstein of Indiana.

More than 30 vehicles will be competing in three different classes at this year's Clash.

The highlight of this year's event will be the modified tractor competition featuring multi-engined tractors capable of producing more than 5,000 horsepower.

Top drivers from across the continent, including the top four finishers on the NTPA Pro-National tour will be in Sutton.

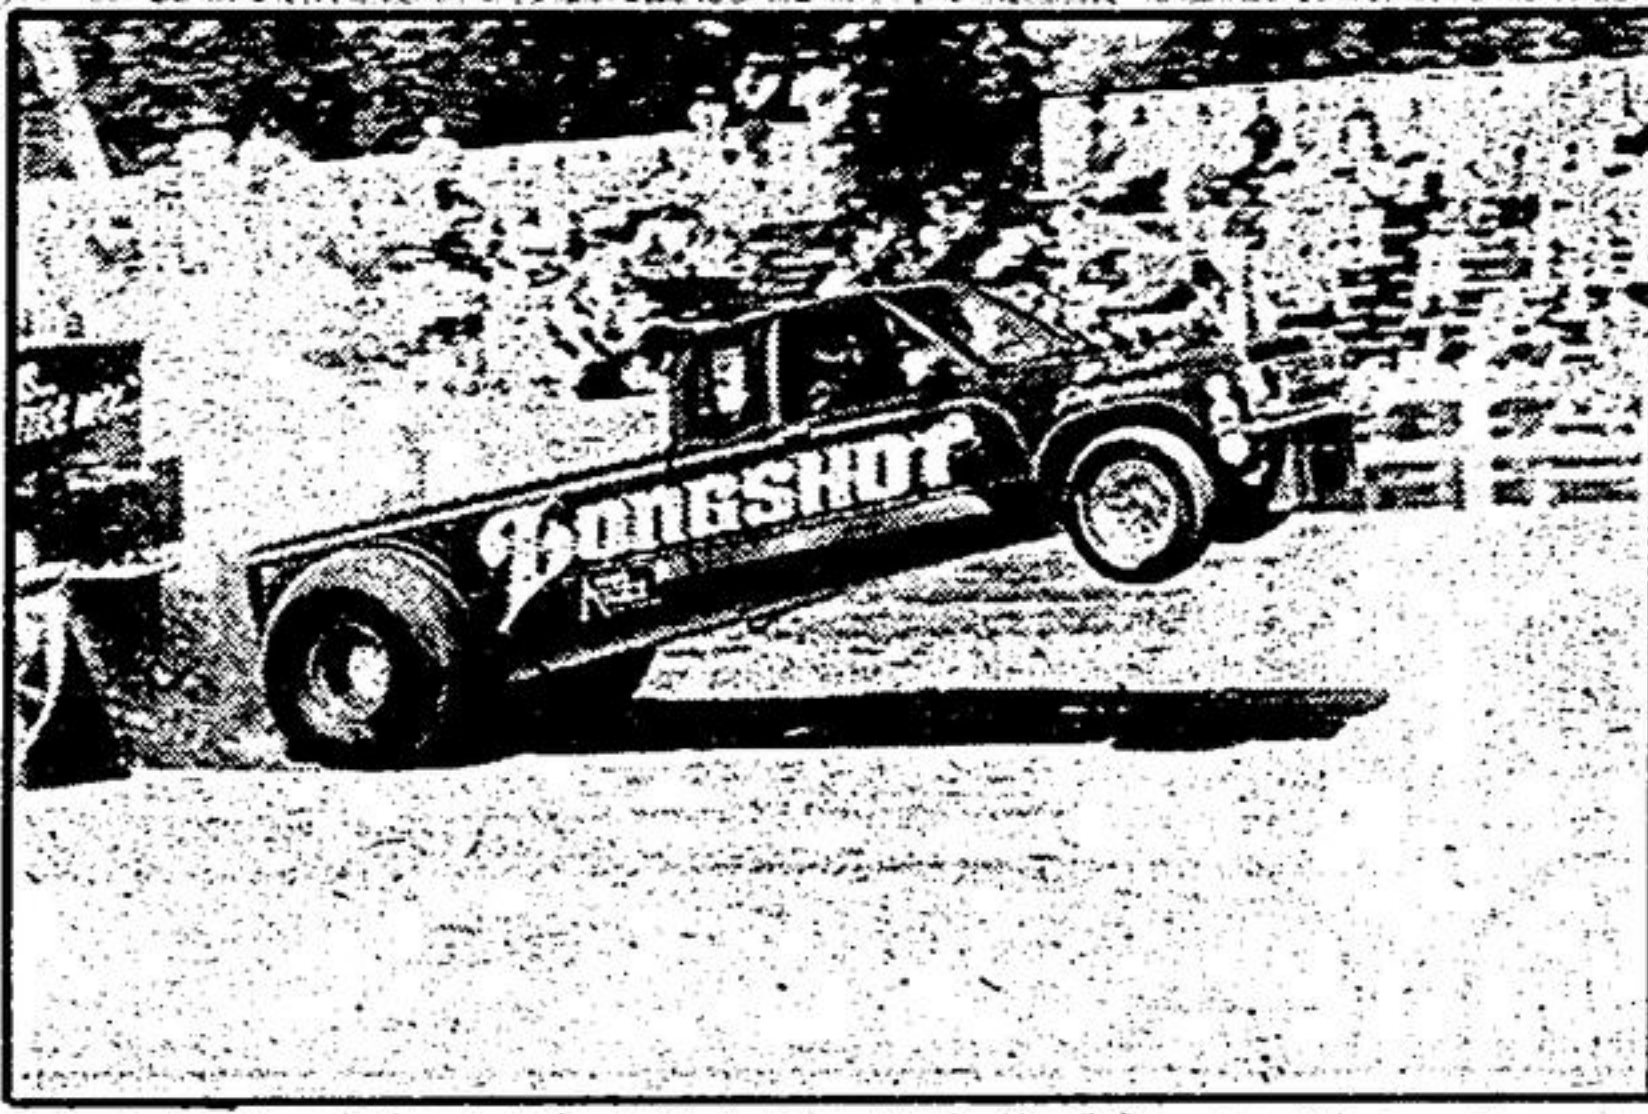

Along with champ Knipstein, other drivers seeking the Clash crown are Bill Douglas, trying to retain his title, Bob Jostock, Charlie Wilcox, Todd Guillen and James Martell, all from Michigan. Canadians challenging for the crown include Norm Hodgins, Andre Simard and the Cayer brothers.

Most of the modified tractors are powered by three or four alcohol burning V8 engines, but at least three of the tractors in this year's Clash have Rolls Royce and Allison V12 airplane engines.

Both nights begin with the modified four-wheel drive truck class with competitors from Ontario, Quebec and the northern U.S. driving their 500 to 750 horsepower trucks down the track.

Bernard Bibeau of Berthierville, Que. will be out to defend his first place finish in his 1991 Dodge, powered by a 610-cubic-inch, hemi V8.

The two-wheel drive modified truck class will see local drivers

Tom Larue, last year's winner drove a two-wheel modified tractor.

such as Bowmanville's Charlie Hynes and Sutton's Tom Larue take on a large field from the U.S. and Canada. Tickets for this year's Clash are $10, including parking, and children under-10, accompanied by an adult, are admitted free. For ticket information, call Ted at 722-8315, or Pat at 722-6953.
