Focus on Family

Television is the enemy of communication within the family

Question: What is your view of TV, generally? Should parents attempt to regulate what their children watch?

Dr. Dobson: Most television programming is awful. According to Dr.

Gerald Looney of the University of Arizona, by the time the average preschool child reaches 14 years of age, he will have witnessed 18,000 murders on TV and countless hours of related violence, nonsense and unadulterated drivel.

Furthermore, the most time-consuming activity in the life of a child is neither school nor family interaction. It is television, absorbing 14,000 valuable hours during the course of childhood. That is the equivalent to sitting before the tube eight hours a day continuously for 4.9 years.

There are other aspects of television which demand its regulation and control. For one thing, it is an enemy of communication within the family. How can we talk to each other when a $1 million production in living color is always beckoning our attention?

I am also concerned about the current fashion whereby each program director is compelled to include all the avant garde ideas - go a little further, use a little more profanity, discuss the undiscussable, assault the public concept of good taste and decency.

In doing so, they are hacking away at the foundations of the family and all that represents the Judeo-Christian ethic. In recent seasons, for example, we were offered hilariously funny episodes involving abortion, divorce, extramarital relationships, rape and the ever-popular theme "father is an idiot."

If this is "social relevance", then I am sick to death of the message I have been fed.

Television, with its unparalleled capacity for teaching and edifying, has occasionally demonstrated the potential it carries. Little House on the Prairie was for years the best program available for young children.

I would not, therefore, recommend smashing the television set in despair. Rather, we must learn to control it instead of becoming its slave. When our children were young, they were permitted to watch one hour of cartoons on Saturday morning and one half-hour program each afternoon, selected from an approved list. That still sounds like a reasonable schedule for elementary school children.

These questions and answers are excerpted from the book Dr. Dobson Answers Your Questions. Everyone who writes to Dr. Dobson receives a personal response.
