

Let's Get Growing

Enter our bulb contest

Some people are dreading the approach of autumn, but for me the cooler temperatures herald the arrival of the fall planting season and I am filled with enthusiasm. Now, I can correct all the mistakes in my garden!

In many ways fall is the best time of year to plant - cooler temperatures, especially at night, and more moisture triggers the plant into increased root development. Root growth continues until a deep freeze which may not occur until December. I make the most of my perennial plantings in the next few weeks so they will have well established root systems before next summer's heat and drought.

Each fall, many "hardy" chrysanthemums are planted but very few of them survive. Perhaps this has generated the idea that fall planting will not be suc-

Unionville Main Street offers attractions for residents, tourists

Historic Unionville is renowned for its unique charm which combines older elements of the village with the new.

Main Street Unionville is a blend of both aspects offering an array of shops and services in a quaint old town setting.

From an outfit for a night on the town to fine dining to craft shops and galleries - it's all offered on the street.

High fashion to sporty looks are all available here at stores such as Firehall Skis and Sports, Dream Leather, Gilliam's Clothing, You & Me Clothing and for the latest in classic men's fashion trends, Mariani's Custom Clothier. If it's sports equipment or accessories you're looking for, stroll into Firehall Skis and Sports.

Housed in, you guessed it, what was once the town's firehall, the store has been a staple in the town for over 10 years and is hosting a sale running until Monday, September 4th with a variety of events surrounding it.

Owner, Judy Schwalm, says being on the street is a lot of fun.

"People here are friendly and there's a great family atmosphere."

Main Street Unionville also boasts a number of restaurants to satisfy just about any craving. Jake's Pub & Grill, The Old Country Inn, Blacksmiths Bistro, Pineapple Inn & Bake House, the Unionville Arms and Martina's Restaurant are just some of the names which have made the street a great place to stop for a meal.

Furthermore, aesthetic services, jewelry, and antique stores make the street not only an imperative for visitors to the town but also a great stop for Markham residents.

Visit Main Street Unionville, nestled just east of Warden Avenue, north of Hwy. #7.
