Taxes are soon due, but library has plenty of tips on tax savings

Whoever arranged for income tax to be due just after bleakness of winter must have been well; it's definitely a government decision.

Of course, we always have the option of waiting until the final hour in April, thereby eliminating the cabin fever syndrome, but certainly creating another form of crushing stress. Revenue Canada must hear a lot of creative stories, but the moral is - prepare early.

It looks like some Whitchurch-Stouffville residents are well ahead of the game because some of the tax guides are signed out. Two good guides which get a lot of use are, Jack's on Tax Savings, and Deloitte & Touche's, How to Reduce the Tax you Pay. Drop into the library and if the books are signed out, you can reserve the titles at the front desk.

While you're reserving books, you can also reserve material we have on order, which are being displayed on the OPAC.

Get ahead of the game by adding your name to the list for The Beardstown Ladies. These ladies have started their own investment club, and it's a successful club. Maybe part of their success is in their book publishing project. They've been interviewed by People Magazine and Newsweek, and invited to appear on Donahue.

According to Newsweek, the book is simplistic and "provides good advice to novice stock-pickers." Warren Buffet, on the other hand, warns against following the crowd in his article in Money & Investments, which you can read on the library's CD-ROM index to magazines.

Both Buffet and the Beardstown Ladies would agree research is important. They must be great library users.
