Grits, Tories need balance

Dear Editor,

Re: Off the Record - Sept. 4, 1996

In Joan Ransberry's diatribe of Sept. 4, "With Tories and Grits in the ring, Canada is safe", I am afraid she missed a turn in the road to wisdom and common sense.

She feels that nicknaming Preston Manning "Pastor" is derogatory. Perhaps she should realize that to be likened to a Pastor for most people in Whitchurch-Stouffville is not an insult. If being a non-drinker, non-smoker, and taking your family to church on Sunday qualifies you as a Pastor, which Ms. Ransberry feels are appalling attributes for a leader to have, then she may find many Pastors in this area.

The policies of both the Tories and Grits, with which she feels Canada is safe, have created a continuous steady increase in unemployment and a frightening rise in crime.

We have also seen a rise in the dependency on welfare programs, job-killing increases in taxes for companies and individuals, and a growth in the national debt to a level of financial crisis. In the recent past, both of these parties have reaffirmed their position to maintain state-mandated racial and sex quotas, and protect the ill-conceived Young Offenders Act.

They also reject initiatives to eliminate government overspending and start decreasing our debt, reject proposals to tighten controls for parole to violent offenders, and they continue to uphold their position that some groups in this country should have special rights over other Canadians.

It was the policies and practices of the Grits and Tories which almost brought Canada to the brink of separation, and may still do so. If there were only the Grits and Tories in the ring, Canada would surely be doomed.

Profiles of Success

Carrocel Restorations
905-475-6942

Furniture not only reflects the taste and lifestyle of the owner but it can also contribute to the warmth and comfort reflected in a room.

Carrocel Restorations brings back the beauty of antique furniture through their handiwork.

Custom finishing, stripping, hand-sanding, polishing, and reupholstery, are just some of the steps taken before an item is restored.

"In addition to restoring clients' favorite pieces we also have a showroom of antique furniture for sale, we can custom-make any piece and we can source specific items a client is looking for," says Joseph Cabral who is co-owner of the business with his brother Manny.

That means any piece from Duncan Phyfe to Chippendale to Queen Anne to Louis XV can be sourced through the company.

The store carries a wide variety of dining room sets, bedroom sets, armoirs, tables, chairs, couches, desks, and accessories available for sale. The common denominator is the quality of the fine pieces and their traditional, classic style.

"You really can't replace a well-crafted piece of furniture, whether it's an antique or a piece that has been custom-crafted," Cabral adds. "Our pieces are made of high-calibre woods - mahogany, cherry or walnut - and the quality of the workmanship is something you don't easily find in many furniture stores."

Carrocel Restorations is located at 3115 14th Ave., Unit 4.

Tivoli Garden Restaurant

The Tivoli Garden Restaurant in Markham's Radisson Hotel invites you to experience not just the steak but the sizzle.

This fall the popular spot will introduce a "premiere menu for steak in Markham" featuring the finest cuts of certified Canadian Angus beef including filet, ribeye and everybody's favorite - the New York striploin, says Sandy Russell, director of sales and marketing.

Area residents don't have to go downtown to enjoy an outstanding dinner, service second-to-none, and lovely, relaxing surroundings," adds food and beverage service manager, Neil Booth.

Indeed, Tivoli Garden is imbued with a soft ambience overlooking the hotel courtyard, ideal for a special night out or a romantic dinner accented with fine food in comfortable surroundings.

The steak offerings provide a satisfying meal and are a treat in themselves, Booth says.

"The flavor really comes through because of the aging process and really, nothing beats a superior steak dinner, hot off the grill."

But if your tastebuds require something a little different, Tivoli's Garden Restaurant's executive chef, Chris Probst, will never disappoint. The menu offers an eclectic mix of foods culled from Asian, Southern, European, French and North American cuisine.

Furthermore, the wine list will be completely recreated to complement the new menu and offerings promise to be exciting.

"Put some sizzle in your life! Visit Tivoli Garden, an Approved Lifestyle Award restaurant, in the Radisson Hotel in Markham at 50 East Valhalla Drive. Phone to make a reservation at 940-5373.
