Goodwood kids will miss popular principal, and his ties

Dear Editor,

Our names are Caitlin and Lauren Christoff and we are writing to you about a special person.

He is a principal and his name is Mr. Todd. He is funny, tells great jokes, is nice and wears neat ties. When you are sad he will cheer you up. He makes school fun! He is retiring next week from Goodwood Public School. We wrote this letter because he is special to us and all the kids at Goodwood P.S.

and we will miss him very much.

Questions & Answers
 on grief recovery*

Q I am several months past my loss now. Most days I do very well. Then all of a sudden I become overwhelmed. Is this normal?

A. Certainly. Grief can be analogous to waves hitting on the shore. At first, the waves are large and powerful and they knock us down. As we work through our grief, the waves begin to subside to a degree. When we haven't noticed any waves for a while, we know that we are succeeding in rebuilding our lives. If we know this is normal and part of our grief process, we can recover from the waves sooner and learn to expect fewer of them in our future.
