

Local artist displays watercolors at Kent Farndale Gallery

Goodwood artist Helen McKenna will show 30 recent watercolors at the Kent Farndale Gallery in Port Perry from March 29 until April 17. The exhibition comprises an eclectic collection, ranging from introspective commentaries on contemporary life to exuberant studies of flowers and nature.

McKenna will be at the gallery from 1 to 4 p.m. March 29 to discuss her work with visitors. The gallery is located in the library building on Water Street.

SAMPLE SYRUP AT HORTON

The sugar bush at Horton Tree farms is open for the annual Maple Syrup Festival.

Visitors can learn about traditional and modern methods of syrup making on guided tours of the sugar bush, where they can also partake of sap and syrup samples. Wagon rides, hiking on the trails and pancakes are all part of the fun.

The festival runs weekends from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. to April 6. Admission is $2.50 for adults, $3 for seniors and students and $1.50 for children 5 to 12. Younger children are admitted free.

MAKING HISTORY

Whitchurch-Stouffville Museum invites local students in Grade 9 to OAC to help complete the recently renovated 19th Century Streetscape Exhibit as part of the celebrations for Heritage Week.

The challenge is to create audio recordings to complement three shops in the development: The Barbershop, George Powell's Shoemaker Shop and Wilson's Millinery.

Recordings must be a maximum of 90 seconds in length and entry forms and information have been sent to history and English teachers at all area schools. The contest deadline is May 15 and winning entries will be played at the museum's anniversary garden party and open house June 8 from 1 to 4 p.m.

Prizes will be awarded to the winner and runner-up for each recording and winners' names will be engraved on a plaque and become a permanent part of the museum's collection.
