Jewish teens speak out for services

One of Toronto's largest Jewish organizations is listening to teens who want more Jewish services in York Region. A meeting with 50 teens at Westmount Collegiate Institute in Vaughan this month was a "great first step," Saul Cohen, an outreach worker for UJA Federation said in a release.

Jewish teens suggested many services, including a place to hang out, were needed for their local community, estimated at 50,000, the federation said last week. "Once people got started talking, ideas just kept pouring out," said Sara Cohen, 16, a student at Thornlea Collegiate in Thornhill.

Myung's TAEKWON-DO

MASTER MYUNG'S TAEKWON-DO

Dear Master Myung's TaeKwon-Do Academy,
I would like to share some of my thoughts on how Taekwon-Do has made a positive impact on my sons life since he has been training at Master Myung's Taekwon-Do Academy. Some of the positive changes I have seen in him are more respect for us, his parents, and also for his siblings. His self esteem and self confidence has greatly improved. His ability to handle situations of great sensitivity and stressful situations are handled with great self control. I feel that Master Myung's continuous positive influence and his undivided attention and his caring nature has made a great difference in my sons life.

Thank you,
Teresa Nikoletsos.

From the parents of one HAPPY, CONFIDENT & RESPECTFUL student from MASTER MYUNG'S TAEKWON-DO-ACADEMY

We at Myung's Taekwon-Do Academy take great pride on being able to:
