Schleese Saddlery hosts global meeting

By JOAN RANSBERRY
Staff Reporter

The co-owner of a Stouffville business is one of the key organizers of a global convention being held this weekend.

Sabine Schleese, co-owner of Schleese Saddlery Services, is helping to coordinate the international convention being sponsored by the Women Entrepreneurs of Canada at a Toronto hotel.

A total of 150 women entrepreneurs from such places as Argentina, South America, including Argentina, Belgium, the Philippines and South Africa will attend workshops at the convention. The sessions deal with such topics as leadership, banking and enhancing the corporate image.

Schleese is directing a workshop on teaching women how to do business across the border.

Schleese and her husband sell saddles and accessories to an elite client list across North America and Europe.

The Kennedy Road-based manufacturer was recently recognized as one of the 100 fastest growing companies in Canada.

Meanwhile, her husband, Jochen Schleese is the Whitchurch-Stouffville Chamber of Commerce choice of Business Entrepreneur of the Year award. The Schleeses' good fortune continues.

And the couple have been also nominated for the Outstanding Business Achievement Award sponsored by the Ontario Chamber of Commerce.
