The Markham Theatre welcomes The Varley Art Gallery to the Markham cultural family!

We invite you to celebrate the arts in all their diversity ... from the works of Frederick Varley to the heart-warming music of Rita MacNeil, the comic antics of Andre-Philippe Gagnon, the 'down home' humour of Walt Wingfield and the charming children's ballet, Where the Wild Things Are.

From October through May, we have six separate series and six special attractions to infuse you with all the passion and joy of the performing arts.

Clockwise from Upper Left: Andre-Philippe Gagnon - Special Attraction; Wingfield's Progress - Special Attraction; Rita MacNeil - Signature Series; Where the Wild Things Are - Family Series

Call now for your free 97/98 Professional Entertainment Season brochure, and make the upcoming year a celebration!

FREDERICK

VARLEY

HAS ROOTS IN MARKHAM

A founding member of the Group of Seven, Frederick Horstman Varley led a restless life, pursuing the causes beneath which great art is born. His canvases were pioneering expressions of the beauty of the Canadian landscape and its people. Varley spent the last 12 years of his life in Unionville (now part of Markham), Ontario, where a new gallery is home to a collection of his paintings, drawings, and personal belongings from the collection of Kathleen Crozier McKay.

Join us for the grand unveiling of The Frederick Horstman Varley Art Gallery of Markham and its commemorative exhibition.
