"Meet Wally Sparks". When advertisers and the FCC begin complaining about Wally Sparks' (Rodney Dangerfield) outrageous antics, the network president (Burt Reynolds) gives Wally an ultimatum: "Clean up your act or the show is canned!" With one last shot to save his access, Wally goes after an interview with the conservative Governor of Georgia. With some freak luck and the help of Wally's undaunted television Producer, Wally ends up at a political party at the Governor's mansion, where he uncovers a story riddled with sex, political scandal and sky-high rating potential!
