KITCHEN SINK SYMPHONY

One of our readers dropped in a clipping from an old copy of The Toronto Star bearing the headline, "Stouffville seniors cook up a medley," which documents the story of the 15-piece Stouffville Seniors' Kitchen Band. The nine band members in the accompanying photograph are Jean Reesor, Alma Johnston, Hazel Wilson, Florence Catton, Greta Hill, Verna Tarr, Marianne McCarthy, Maude Kerr and Esther Smith.

Among the resourceful group's instruments were a washtub bass, a saw, a musical coffee pot, cowbells and kazoos, and the article noted that the group first performed at the Silver Jubilee Club's variety night. Unfortunately, there was no date on the clipping and we'd love to find out when the band performed and hear from some of its members or their families.

"We may not sound all that great, but we have a lot of fun," Claude Kerr, the drummer, told The Star. "We're already booked for a couple of events this fall." In addition to their eclectic set of kitchen instruments, the group also featured piano, violin and guitar. If you have more information, we'd like to hear from you — just drop by or call The Tribune office at 640-2100.

MUSEUM NEWS

Young model car enthusiasts are invited to display their creative skills at the 24th annual Antique and Classic Car Show, which takes place Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the museum. The Youth Model Car Contest is open to youngsters in two age groups — under 12 and under 16 — and entries can be based on current and historic cars or fantasy cars, such as movie mobiles or experimental and futuristic models.

There will be separate categories for models made from kits and those created from scratch. Entrants will be admitted free and are eligible to bring one guest. The show also includes a dazzling display of antique and classic cars from across southern Ontario and prizes will be awarded to winning exhibitors.

Visitors can enjoy a stroll through the museum's historic buildings, and heritage demonstrations and live entertainment will be featured throughout the day. Refreshments will be available in the Tea Room or from the barbecue. Admission is $4 per person, $10 for a family of four. Children under 7 are admitted free. The museum's second summer program for children is scheduled to run Aug. 20 to 22 and includes heritage activities and crafts, with completed projects to take home.

Children aged 8 to 14 can register for either a morning or afternoon program and the fee is $25 per session. On Sept. 7, the museum will host a Hands-on Heritage Fall Fair from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., at which visitors can try their hand at various skills including ice-cream making, cross-cut sawing, fence building and square dancing. For more information on museum programs and events, call the toll free line at 416-213-0900, then dial 905-727-8954 at the tone.

LONG LIVE THE KING

1997 marks the 20th anniversary of Elvis Presley's untimely death. Two decades later, however, the spirit of the king lives on at the Stouffville Country Market, Aug. 16 and 17, during the Memories of Elvis Weekend, which includes musical performances, a karaoke contest and an Elvis look-alike contest.
