

Collision with tall ship left family shaken but uninjured would be really nice if they do it, it would mean we'd have a cruise from Massachusetts to Florida."

In all the years the Franzens have been sailing, did they ever think a 19-sail, wooden-hulled tall ship — used in movies and for cruise tours — would have come crashing into their lives.

"Never! This boat was the boat that was in the movie with Capt. Blye," said Bogart-Franzen. "Do you know the odds of this happening?"

The Franzens' boat — named the Vandana — was built by its captain, Gunter Franzen.

"I know my husband was in shock," said Bogart-Franzen.

The Stouffville family — which has lived in Stouffville since 1980 — spent six hours puttering home after the accident on their 25-horsepower motor.

"We just got back to the house last night," said Bogart-Franzen in an interview last Friday.

The boat is currently docked at its home port at the Scarborough Bluffs Yacht Club, undergoing damage estimates.

The Bounty sustained some damage, but it isn't known if it will affect its scheduled trip to the East Coast Tuesday.

The Vandana was damaged after a run-in with the HMS Bounty. The Franzens were not injured in the collision.
