

Boards to vote on bus ads

Both major area school boards may decide later this month whether advertising on school buses should continue next year, said the manager of their joint bus service.

A new and larger set of advertisements were mounted on the buses last week. For the fall, buses will carry eight ads outside and four inside the bus, said Dave Martin of Student Transportation Services.

"Sales were up. Not full, but they're up," Martin said. There is space inside the larger buses for 20 ads. Sales for the first two quarters of the year were more disappointing, starting with only one ad inside each bus.

Martin said STS is reviewing opinion gathered on the issue from school councils, bus drivers, advertisers and random parents. It will bring a report to the joint consortium of the public and separate boards this month, he said.
